

MSQ02

How are your students performing in your class?A revisit of a new control chart

Zhi Tao

UAA, Anchorage, Anchorage, USA

Abstract

This paper is to investigate how students are performing in classes. A median based control chart is established in the study. The outperformers and underperformers are identified as outliers. The control chart identifies more outliers and watching points, giving more information about the students at academic risk in conjunction with the regular control chart.

Conference Track

Management Science and Quantitative Methods